Question 30 (Answer: A)

- Emerging economies have high growth potential, rising incomes and improving access to services.
- Birth rates are typically still high early on.
- But agriculture's share of GDP falls as the economy industrialises – a growing share is not a feature.

Question 28 (Answer: D)

- The HDI uses income, education and life expectancy.
- The MPI uses health, education and living standards.
- Education is the dimension the two share – income appears only in the HDI and child mortality only in the MPI.
