

Exercise walk-through

The Society of the South in the Early Republic ■ 4.13

eXercise

You must be able to

- state the CED's fact about slaveholding in the South
- state what most Southern leaders argued
- state what Southern business leaders relied on
- explain what overcultivation caused

Method — The fact

Although the majority of Southerners owned no enslaved persons, most leaders argued that slavery was part of the Southern way of life. The CED puts a demographic fact and a political claim in one sentence.

Method — Leaders and population

Most Southerners were not slaveholders, and most Southern leaders defended slavery. Both are true, and the gap between them is a fact about who spoke for the section.

Method — The economy

Southern business leaders continued to rely on the production and export of traditional agricultural staples, contributing to the growth of a distinctive Southern regional identity. The economy and the identity develop together.

Method — Overcultivation

As overcultivation depleted arable land in the Southeast, slaveholders began relocating their plantations to more fertile lands west of the Appalachians, where the institution of slavery continued to grow. An environmental cause with a political consequence.

Practice 2.1 ■ 2 marks

State the CED's fact about slaveholding and what most leaders argued.

Solution 2.1

Worked steps

the majority of Southerners owned no enslaved persons B1; most leaders argued that slavery was part of the Southern way of life B1.

Practice 2.2 ■ 2 marks

State what Southern business leaders relied on and its effect.

Solution 2.2

Method: The economy

Worked steps

the production and export of traditional agricultural staples B1, contributing to a distinctive Southern regional identity B1.

Practice 2.3 ■ 2 marks

Overcultivation had a political consequence.

(a) State the chain.

(b) State what the gap between population and leaders shows.

Solution 2.3

Worked steps

- (a) overcultivation depleted arable land in the Southeast B1, so slaveholders relocated plantations west of the Appalachians, where slavery continued to grow B1.
- (b) who spoke for the section B1.

Exam-style 3.1 ■ 1 mark

The majority of Southerners

- A owned no enslaved persons
- B owned plantations
- C lived in cities
- D opposed slavery publicly

Solution 3.1

Method: The fact

A owned no enslaved persons

B owned plantations

C lived in cities

D opposed slavery publicly

Worked steps

A. the CED's own statement.

Exam-style 3.2 ■ 1 mark

Overcultivation depleted arable land in

- A the Southeast
- B New England
- C the Northwest Territory
- D California

Solution 3.2

Method: Overcultivation

A the Southeast

B New England

C the Northwest Territory

D California

Worked steps

A. the Southeast.

Exam-style 3.3 ■ 1 mark

Most people in a section do not hold an institution, and their leaders defend it as their way of life.

- (a) State what this reveals.
- (b) Explain how such a defence can be sustained.

Solution 3.3

Worked steps

(a) that the leadership's position did not depend on majority ownership B1. (b) the institution can be defended as regional identity rather than as personal interest B1, which enlists people who hold no enslaved persons themselves B1.
